

What to Expect at Meredith in Spring 2022

Dear Meredith Community:

As the fall semester winds down and the winter break is soon to begin, we want to thank you for following Meredith's community standards and keeping our campus as healthy as possible.

Thanks to your diligence, Meredith was able to have a semester that moved much closer to a typical experience than we had when the pandemic began in 2020.

This semester, Meredith was able to provide on-campus, face-to-face course delivery for the vast majority of courses. Traditions and student events like Cornhuskin' and Ring Dinner were re-imagined in order to be held in person safely. We saw the return of study abroad, welcomed spectators back to athletic events, and loosened restrictions on guests in residence halls and The Oaks.

In the spring, with the COVID-19 vaccination requirement in place, we expect to be able to do much the same, and more, as conditions allow. In the spring, Meredith students, employees, and visitors will continue to need to follow the College's Community Standards, which may be modified as COVID-19 conditions change.

We strongly encourage everyone to get a PCR test before returning to campus, but particularly if you participate in an event or activity during the break that puts you at a higher risk of exposure to COVID-19.

We are following the indoor mask mandate currently in place in the City of Raleigh. Other policies and procedures will be implemented or continued depending on CDC and N.C. Department of Health and Human Services recommendations.

We continue making decisions, as we have throughout the pandemic, that are based on expert guidance. All decisions are made with the health and safety of our community as the highest priority.

With best wishes for a strong end of the semester and a happy winter break,

The Executive Leadership Team
